Paulos begins by letting us know that he has read the newspaper almost daily since the late 1940s. Somewhere along the way he picked up a Ph.D. in mathematics, and began reading with the critical eye of a mathematician. He turns his quirky observations into stories, and he is an engaging storyteller.

A Mathematician Reads the Newspaper Summary - eNotes.com

Adopt a thoughtful and skeptical approach to reading the news. While mathematicians may fail to see the forest for the trees, journalists often exaggerate or leave out important details through misunderstanding math, statistics or science or in attempting to make a story compelling. When you read the news, think critically and stay alert for biases.
