Studying math requires you to sit down and do math. That's right! Whereas an English course might focus on elements of grammar, language, craft, or a specific book, the best way to study math is simply to do math. Set a good time and place for yourself and get to practicing. The more you practice, the better you're going to be!

Spacing between letters and lines is also important. If you do choose to use large print, it should be at least 16 to 18 points, but keep in mind that the relationship between readability and point size differs somewhat among typefaces. This is very individualized, and some students will need a larger size print.
